LIGHTOLIER BLUE BOOK

OF AUTHENTIC DESIGNS IN DECORATIVE LIGHTING

LIGHTOLIER COMPANY
Artists and Artisans in Metals and Glass
569-575 BROADWAY
NEW YORK CITY

IN the atmosphere which surrounds every home of real distinction, there is a subtle, but unmistakable element. Some refer to it as smartness; others call it style. Fortunately, there is a style in lighting which the modern, modish woman demands with the same discriminating taste that she discovers the charm in the folds of a chiffon frock, the enchantment in the setting of a lovely jewel, or the chic of a hat brim's turning. Correct lighting also is a delicate synthesis of line and form and color.

As architectural trends have developed and styles of furniture and decoration have changed, Lightolier has anticipated the need with fixtures of ever-increasing beauty. Everywhere women of position realize that Lightolier equipment captures the rare but important quality of distinction.

For Lightoliers are made by artists and artisans in metals and glass who have been specializing in the field of illumination since the dawn of the century. Each design is guaranteed to be perfect in character, construction and finish.

The reputation which stands behind them is your convincing assurance that their high quality will be an endless source of satisfaction long after all recollection of their low cost is forgotten.

The Vogue in Decorative Lighting

IF any single characteristic typifies the American home of today as against the home of thirty or twenty or even ten years ago, it is the far better judgment with which that home is furnished. No longer is it deemed adequate for the articles in a home to perform their bare necessary function alone. They must be beautiful, artistic, and pleasing to the eye and to the mind, as well.

In every line and in every product for the house this characteristic will be found. Porcelain baths in pastel colors trace a dim but direct lineage to the Saturday night tin tub of not so long ago. The kitchen pot no longer calls the kettle black; but green or yellow or red, as the woman of the house decides. And furniture, too, has learned its lesson well—that design and style and tastefulness have appeals that cannot be denied.

So it is with lighting. The days when Edison pioneered the carbon-filament lamp are still within the living memory of Father Time. Alone and bare, that lamp sufficed to light the home of forty and fifty years ago. Today, artists and scientists have brought it far. Modern lighting has become the master wand, employing colors, designs, textures, forms, to unify and beautify the chosen decorative furnishings for every room. Today it is agreed that the fullest possibilities of any home can be achieved only through well-selected lighting.

It is for this fundamental reason that home builders and furnishers are no longer spending more for single rugs or easy-chairs than they are ready to spend for the lighting effects in all the rooms of the house. It is for this reason, too, that full importance is placed upon the beauty of the fixtures as they appear by day as well as their illuminated appearance by night. How beautiful and beautifying lighting can become, the pages of this book will show.

Finally, it is the especial principle of Lightolier that truly beautiful lighting need not be expensive. Designers, artists, decorators, and other technicians of outstanding ability and note contribute to the Lightolier products you select—but you select them at the price you want to pay because of economies in the large scale production necessary to serve the nation-wide chain of Lightolier distributors.

In presenting these products, we solicit your careful inspection and approval, confident that it means your lasting satisfaction.

All color reproductions faithfully portray the finish in which the fixture is furnished. The numbers illustrated here are also presented with their proper companion pieces on the following pages.

Colonial Equipment

ONE style rises steadily in favor with the American public for all its decorations and furnishings—the true Colonial. Perhaps it is because Colonial is native to the land. More likely, because none can question the simple, sturdy charm of true Colonial appointments.

Naturally, Lightolier has turned its talents to fashioning Colonial pieces, but only after long and patient research into historic models treasured for their beauty and authenticity. The Concord, Yorktown, and Lexington series of equipment, shown in these pages, bring to the home of Colonial spirit painstaking fidelity and artistic accuracy. Each piece retains the beauty, charm, and quality of the antique from which it derived its inspiration.

Many of the fixtures are furnished with Colonial-cut chimneys, part clear, with crimped edges—a distinctive note formerly obtainable only on products of far greater cost. In all three series, especially interesting Colonial finishes have been selected.

Subjected to rigid engineering and artistic requirements, they have already won for themselves the accolade of selection in historic Colonial towns where restoration work has been undertaken.

Crystal Illumination

CRYSTAL fixtures are a heritage from the gay and magnificent courts of France when elegance was the keynote of furnishings as well as of manners. Now crystals are again in vogue, and, adapted to modern American architecture by Lightolier designers, winning the whole-hearted approval of discriminating architects, decorators and home-builders.

For in these fixtures is a happy jointure of the finest workmanship in the New World and the Old. The prisms, jewels, drops and drapes are all of the famous Bohemian crystal in which the scintillating effects are secured by skilled labor forming and polishing each facet on a revolving wooden wheel —a process which alone can bring out the flaming kaleidoscopic colors and lovely lustre.

To set off these crystals to deserving advantage is a task calling for exceptional metal craftsmanship and finishing. The call has been heard and answered. Rate these fixtures from any point of view; always you receive confirmation of their high position as the aristocrats of lighting equipment.

Crystal fixtures shown here range from larger pieces for formal drawing room to smaller pieces for bedroom, solarium, or hall. Behind each one—the unqualified Lightolier guarantee.

Craftsmanship in Iron

LIGHT and Iron—two of the most useful gifts of Mother Nature, with which civilization as we know it can alone be possible. Happy is their combination in Lightolier equipment. In fact, improvement has been made on Nature herself, for to preserve certain finishes some of these fixtures have been rendered rust-proof.

The rugged construction and beautiful simplicity of design which characterized the products of the early Colonial smithies have been faithfully carried out in the Puritan and Valley Forge Series. In the Cellini group, exquisite examples of the famous Italian work on iron products are reproduced.

Not only are these fixtures eminently suitable for homes of Colonial architecture, but they are sure to lend notes of decided interest in all homes of rugged interiors so frequently employed in English, Spanish, and Italian types of decoration. For characteristically with all Lightolier equipment, these fixtures decorate as well as illuminate. With old furnishings they bring refreshing distinction; with new, the strength of harmony and coherence. New lighting is new furnishing in the finest sense.

Granada Series

THE Granada Series is more than a select group of equipment embodying new developments in fixture craftsmanship. Particular importance attaches to it also because of its perfect relation to the architectural vogue which inspired its creation.

For where ten and fifteen years ago, homes of Italian or Spanish design were rare indeed, now this style of architecture surges steadily to the fore. Whole communities have sprung up in which it is the only style of architecture employed.

In fashioning and designing the lighting for these Italian and Spanish-type homes, Lightolier has thoroughly studied the rugged, rough-finish interiors, the hand-hewn beams, the wood-paneled rooms, plastered walls, vaulted ceilings, and the occasional balconied living or dining room which typify the Mediterranean influence. It has created decorative lighting such as the Florentine and Hispanic craftsmen of the Renaissance would have made for their noble patrons of centuries ago.

Granada fixtures are made of a special metal alloy, Bronzol, perfected by Lightolier. It is strong, durable, and with extraordinary qualities for beautiful finishing—qualities which have been utilized to the full. Here are splendid fixtures, arresting in their individuality and glorious finish—the best that modern knowledge and craftsmanship can produce.

Beautiful Dining Room Lighting

ANOTHER triumph for Lightolier engineers and designers is immediately apparent from inspection of the fixtures on the pages that follow. Already they have been awarded prizes at art exhibits for their splendid beauty, courageous vision, and sound conception and construction.

A committee of leading artists and interior decorators has collaborated in perfecting the wonderful colorings and textures of these products, having in mind always their suitable blending in themselves and with the other furnishings that are in use.

These are fixtures engineered to satisfy the definite and concrete requirements of the dining room. This is the room, which more than any other, sees all the family assembled at one time; in which the pleasantest hour of all, the dinner hour, can be enjoyed the more under the cheering influence of good light. Yet the illumination of this room must be restful and soothing too. Glare, with its irritating effects, is absolutely out of place.

All these factors have been borne in mind. Glare deflectors hide the lamps and shade the eyes of those around the table. A good, white light is thrown on napery and silverware to emphasize their beauty as every woman would desire. Meanwhile, the glass shade diffuses a glowing colorful light into the corners of the room.

Many of these fixtures are equipped with convenience outlet for ready attachment of toaster, percolator, or waffle iron. The skill which has gone into their devising is all the more evident when their reasonable cost is considered. Here is dining room lighting of peerless distinction!

The Good Old English Period

MANY there are who favor the good, old English periods in their architecture and their furnishings—and furnishings to remain in character must include lighting. For it is just as unthinkable to rest content with lighting that is not of the same quality as the other furnishings as it would be to dress in clothes of discordant colors or miscellaneous styles. The ensemble is the thing.

Adequate provision for homes of English leaning has been made in this Blue Book. The Canterbury and Warwick Series especially employ English motifs that have been favorites with jewelers and silversmiths for centuries. But the motifs have not been allowed to migrate alone. With them have come the same jewel-like finishes found in the work of old.

For true it is that if there is any attribute of Lightolier equipment which stands out above all others, it is their exquisite, enduring finish. No care is too great, and no research too detailed to secure the finishes which have won for Lightoliers their enviable reputation, "the fixtures with lastingly beautiful finishes."

Beautiful Bedrooms and Boudoirs

THIS is the age of color! The drab, dismal appointments of yesterday have passed into the limbo of forgotten things. In dress, in furnishings, in all the articles we use—soft colors, harmoniously and tastefully used, are the unfailing companions of the vogue.

Above all others, the bedroom or boudoir has been quick to endorse the modern note of color. For here it is that personality is expressed, where intimacy, privacy and relaxation from work and care should be reflected in the furnishings.

And lighting plays its part, as it must always, where fullest beauty and completest comfort are desired.

Experts in color harmony have advised with Lightolier on the subtle yet distinctive combinations illustrated in these pages. Artists have been engaged to tincture forms and figures their fancy holds. Soft, restful light is the happy result.

If you are one of those with whom the art and grace of living has all the importance it deserves, Lightolier bedroom equipment will suit your taste and fit your pocket too.

Lighting the Hall

WITHIN the home, the hall or foyer gives the first impression of the other rooms, and so the furnishings must convey the cheerfulness, hospitality and warmth the complete home wishes to attain. The parting guest secures her last impression here. This, too, lingers long.

The designing staff at Lightolier has given special thought to these facts. From it have come fixtures in a charming diversity of color, style and type, but products uniform in that they are as beautiful by day as they are by night. To term them "lights" alone is less than fair. These are decorative objects plus illumination in the finest sense. They cost no more.

For sun-porch and breakfast room too, these fixtures are ideal. Their cheerful aspect, color harmonies, and charm assure their livableness for long, long years to come. This is the test of purchases wisely made—the standard by which Lightoliers are designed.

Outdoor Lightoliers

NO finer definition of the purpose of exterior lighting has ever been offered than "the outward symbols of inner culture and refinement." Outdoor lighting must have dignity and character, because for every person who sees the interior of your home, there are at least a score who judge it from its exterior alone. Particularly is this true at night, for tasteful and distinctive outdoor illumination cloaks the entrance with more majesty than all the daytime glory of an expensive coat of paint.

There are other valid reasons for a discriminating selection of outdoor lighting. It makes prowlers shy, helps to identify your house, and prevents mishaps at door steps, entrances and porch. Good light outside your home indicates the friendliness and hospitality within, and so bids welcome to your guests.

But exterior lighting must have superlative qualities of durability. Nothing about a home has a fiercer battle with wind and weather, sun and rain, ice and snow. Your home will never show unsightly streaks of rust to mar brick or paint if Lightolier outdoor fixtures are used, for outdoor Lightoliers are constructed of weather-proof and rust-proof materials.

The fixtures in these pages indicate how Lightolier equipment can add to the attractiveness of your home, whatever its style of architecture may be. Their sterling values cannot be surpassed.

Right—The largest single factory entirely devoted to the production of better illumination. Here Lightoliers are designed by our own staff of designers, modelers, patent makers and tool makers, and faultlessly constructed by fixture craftsmen. From this thorough modern and fully-equipped institution come triple-inspected Lightoliers.

Below—The Lightolier building at 569 Broadway, New York City. Here are offices and experimental show rooms to test the merits of each design before it is placed on the marke..

Leadership is the Best Guarantee of Value

THE consistent, progressive contribution to the styles and engineering of the lighting industry which Lightolier has sponsored has won for Lightolier the position of leadership it enjoys today.

Back of every Lightolier fixture is more than a quarter century of experience in manufacturing beautiful lighting equipment of superior quality and selling it at prices that permit even those with the most modest budgets to decorate their homes with the maximum of attractiveness and efficiency.

How to Place Orders with Lightolier

Important Information for Dealers

Dealers' Prices. Dealers' prices for fixtures illustrated in the "Blue Book of Authentic Designs" are given in the NET price list enclosed with this catalog. If your copy is lost or destroyed, write for another at once.

List Prices in the Catalog. The prices given with the descriptions in this catalog are list prices. They are not the suggested retail prices, but are subject to a discount which the Lightolier distributor will gladly quote.

Equipment. Lightoliers in this catalog are shipped wired complete, ready to install. However, commercial units are available both wired and not wired in accordance with specifications in the net price list.

Brackets. All brackets are equipped with the latest devices to assure easy installation and supplied with pull chain sockets or canopy switch as specified. Each bracket has individual control.

Shades and Bulbs. Silk or parchment shades on candle fixtures or candle brackets are not included in the equipment of the fixture. Neither are Mazda lamps or bulbs. They will be furnished on request at an additional charge.

Finishes. Lightolier fixtures are noted particularly for their superlatively beautiful and durable finishes. Every fixture is quoted and furnished only in the finishes adapted to its style, design and use.

Specials. The beauty and effectiveness of Lightolier designs and finishes are the result of over twenty-four years of manufacturing and merchandising experience. The finishes specified are the best for the designs illustrated and have won the approval of a discerning and critical buying public. Requesting a "special" finish detracts from the artistic harmony of the fixtures, and is very apt to mar their beauty. "Specials" either in design or finish invariably increase manufacturing costs, delay delivery, and cause disruption of normal routine. We are compelled to request dealers not to depart from specifications in the Blue Book.

Underwriters. All electrical devices and each electrical detail of Lightolier fixtures have been approved by the National Board of Fire Underwriters. All fixtures are polarized and the ground wire properly marked. Every Lightolier will meet the most exacting requirements of local or national Boards of Fire Underwriters.

Dimensions. All important dimensions for each fixture are accurately and fully stated with each description.

"Length" is distance from top of canopy to lowest bottom point of the fixture.

"Extreme width" is the distance between the outermost point of each fixture.

"Extension" is the distance between the wall and the outermost point of the candle cup or husk on a bracket.

"Body length" is the length for the fixture exclusive of canopy and chain. This dimension is given in cases where the fixtures are supplied with longer chain than shown in illustration.

Packing. Each Lightolier is packed in an individual corrugated box and attractively labeled carton—no charge. Wood packing cases, where required, are charged at actual cost in accordance with regular established and accepted trade practice.

Shipments. All Lightolier prices are F.O.B. New York. To firms rated in commercial agencies or furnishing satisfactory references, terms are 1% 10 days, net 30 days. Orders for goods to be shipped express, C.O.D., or freight, sight draft bill of lading attached, should be accompanied by a deposit of 25% of the order.

Claims. Lightolier products are carefully inspected and checked before they are packed by experienced packers. The packing materials used are the best available, and the transportation company has receipted for the shipment in good order. When loss or damage occurs, the carrier alone is therefore responsible. Should your shipment arrive damaged or incomplete, or should you find loss or damage inside the package (concealed breakage or damage), notify the transportation company's local agent at once and secure a statement of the condition of the shipment. You can then file claim for reimbursement, or send information to our Traffic Department, which will handle claim and remit receipts. However, we cannot be responsible for collection of the claim. Do not return goods without shipping instructions from us.

Guarantee. Every genuine Lightolier bears our trade mark inside the canopy. This is your guarantee of authentic design, finest quality materials, careful craftsmanship, superlative and lasting finish.

Your Business is Welcome at Lightolier!
